AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Harmony Considerably Out of Joint in the Local Democratic Party.

BICKERINGS IN THE RANKS

Members of City Government Fieled and Making an Effort to Blame credit the Work of One Another.

With the South Omaha republicans busy attending to other affairs besides politics, the democratic administration begins to be heckled by the bickerings in its own ranks.

Members of the city government attributed the action to pique and soreness, but expressed surprise that national democratic office holders should be drawn into such a false position toward the men who provide the votes to send these same officers to congress.

Certainly the democratic administration feels that it has done well in keeping down the levy, considering that it has increased the light fund. The increase of the fire department made necessary by a double shift arrangement and an increase in the salary fund made necessary by the prospective appointment of a pure food inspector, a plumbing inspector and a city electrician, were all moves in favor of the laboring men and the unions of the city, it is claimed.

The increase of all these funds and a few others raised the taxes exactly one-half mill over last year.

"The small increase was considered a matter of pride by the mayor and the city administration. When you look at the immense amount of public improvements that are getting under way and then look at the taxes I guess there is fair room for criticism in the minds of small men," said the mayor a day or so ago.

"That is only the beginning of the racket," said an old politician. "A few soreheads and defeated politicians itching to get into print think they are playing politics when in fact they are just making spectacles of themselves for public amusement."

To Boost at the Fair. Billy Shellberg, traffic manager at the Union stock yards, is up to his ears in business getting ready for the Omaha-South Omaha day at the state fair.

"We want to boost the thing as much as it will stand," said Shellberg yesterday. Shellberg is one of the quiet chaps who pounds along doing double time and double work in anything he tackles.

Others may blow the horns and wear the ribbons, but Billy just plods along, taking advantage of the noise to push right ahead with any proposition that he backs. He is not saying much about the Omaha-South Omaha day's success at the state fair but he will be there with bells on he says and it will be a big day at that.

Tarriers Outline Program. The fourth annual convention of the Bohemian Catholic turners opened yesterday, when nearly 600 visitors arrived for the occasion.

The convention met and the program for today was outlined. Sunday will be the big day and it is estimated that upwards of 4,000 men will march in the parade.

Another hearing on the petition of Sol Klein for a liquor license was held yesterday afternoon in the city hall. Attorneys S. L. Winter and A. B. Murdoch argued the matter before the board, which decided to take the matter under advisement before rendering a decision.

The feature of the case was the citing of decisions of the supreme court of the United States and Nebraska to enlighten the board as to which way it should render a decision in the case.

Mother's Pension Law Looks Good to an Army of Widows

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 30.—Since announcement was made that the operation of the recently enacted mothers' pension law would cost King county $54,000 during the coming year, widows in all parts of the United States have written to J. A. Sigurdson, investigator in charge of the county's pension bureau, asking that they be placed on the roll.

Mr. Sigurdson received a letter today from a widow in Florida who wrote that her husband had died in Kentucky and she was in want and would like to receive a pension from this county.

Another widow, 83 years old, living in Nebraska, wrote that she supported herself and two children by driving a milk wagon and asked the pension bureau to send her a blank application.

An Ohio widow asked for a pension of $40 a month, and a widow in Pennsylvania applied for aid because her savings had been depleted by doctor's bills.

Sigurdson informed them that only bona fide residents of King county were entitled to aid.

Claims of Greeks Are Still Held Up

John Zeas, the Greek merchant who went to Washington to confer with Congressman Lobeck and Acting Solicitor Frederick Van Dyne on the $150,000 claims for damages sustained by Greeks in the South Omaha riot five years ago returned to the city yesterday.

Mr. Zeas feels that the fact that the officials in Washington gave him promise that something would be done very soon on the claims.

Mr. Zeas called at the state department he had a short conference with Alexander Verous, charge d'affaires of the Greek legation.

Unions Have Quarrel; Labor Day Parade Off

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 30.—There will be no Labor Day celebration in Racine next Monday.

The proposed parade of all artisans and the picnic has been called off, notwithstanding extensive preparations had been made.

The trouble between the unions made it impossible to reach an agreement for the engagement of a band to head the parade and so deeming it advisable to hold a celebration without music it was agreed to abandon the entire program.

The trades and labor council will lose several thousand dollars already expended in perfecting arrangements. The metal polishers made the demand that all members of the bands must pledge themselves to abolish non-union instruments.
